

markt lücke, luckily

we fill gaps – socially, in the job market, in product design and on the plate

INTEGRATION

dedicated, luckily

Even in the prospering city of Zurich, there are child-rearing women who do not manage to enter the job market. The reasons for this are diverse and vary from person to person: lack of or unrecognized education or skills, working hours that are incompatible with child-rearing, abusive and violent experiences, migration-induced difficulties – to name just a few. Often, these women who are in fact fit for employment fall through the cracks. Marktlücke is filling this gap in Zurich's job market with its integration program. In 2015, Marktlücke therefore received the Gleichstellungspreis (gender equality award) awarded annually by the city. Marktlücke offers unemployed women an opportunity to qualify for the „first“ job market either by working in sales, catering or design product assembly – depending on their skill sets. The Marktlücke team helps mothers to find ways to reconcile child-rearing with work. The aim is to encourage self-reflection as well as the participant's initiative and self-confidence. Furthermore, the team imparts professional know-how and social skills and provide coaching during the job application phase and beyond.

Restaurant

delightful, luckily

That Marktlücke is taking the long view is also proven by its restaurant „Kantine Hermetschloo“. Located in the lofty heights of the building's sixth floor, the „Kantine“ – aside from the phenomenal panorama across urban Zurich – offers its customers a menu of the day (both for vegetarians and meat-eaters), a rich salad buffet, snacks for the small appetite and enticing desserts. Homemade, fresh, seasonal and imaginative. For smaller-scale meetings or conferences, a friendly-looking, well-furnished conference room, located right next to the restaurant, can be rented. The premises with a long view are also well suited for unforgettable private parties. What parts of the infrastructure you would like to make use of during such an event is up to you.

Shop

surprising, luckily

If you are looking for a characterful gift to make yourself or your beloved happy or just for something beautiful and/or convenient for everyday life, then you are in the right place at Marktlücke's official shop. Sustainability is really practiced here: Only handmade products made in small, local workshops, „social workshops“ or in Marktlücke's own workshop are taken into consideration. Our products are marked by good design and longevity, and many of them are giving a second life to valuable materials. Appreciation from A to Z – to the delight of everyone involved.

Workshop

imaginative, luckily

In the workshop, program participants are processing orders from external designers under professional guidance. However, the Marktlücke team create their own design products in the workshop, too. These products are available in our official shop as well as in our online shop and at other select retailers. Are you looking for an extraordinary giveaway, a thank you for your employees, an exceptional present for your customers? Our workshop team, comprised of designers and craftswomen, are with you all the way from the idea to the finished product.
